BATTLE ON AT TORREON IS RUMOR

Fiercest Fight of Revolution, Say Railroad Men Who Reach Mexico City

MEN PUT UNDER ARREST; WIRES DOWN; NO NEWS

Federal Train Dynamited by Gen. Benavides—Survivors Are Attacked

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—The biggest battle of the rebellion is raging at Torreon, according to statements here by three railroad men who were arrested immediately. They said the rebels were shelling the city. Foreign residents here are clamoring for news but all telegraph lines are down and no information is available.

FEDERAL TRAIN DYNAMITED BY GENERAL BENAVIDES
CHIHUAHUA CITY, March 15.—(Delayed by censor.) General Benavides dynamited a federal troop train near Zavala, following it with a sharp attack on the survivors. No mortality figures are available but it is understood the federalists suffered severely.

Only the over-eagerness of the dynamiters prevented a holocaust, according to official reports. The mines were laid beneath the track and were connected by electric wires to a distant point in the brush. When the first section of the train ran over the mined tracks and the mines exploded, the other trains stopped and retreated. A sufficient number of mines to destroy all the trains had been laid until the three following sections were over the mines. The dynamiters were a portion of the rebel command defeated on the night previous by federalists.

REBEL ATROCITIES IN TAMAUPLAS TOLD OF
NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—Driven from Victoria, state of Tamaulipas, Rev. Fathers Jose Vadina and Ramon Gonzalez arrived here today. They said the history of the revolution in Tamaulipas had been a succession of rebel atrocities, the climax having been reached three weeks ago when Col. Cavalero, rebel commander at Victoria, held up the clergy, taking all their money. The rebels had then wrecked the churches, stealing the sacred vessels and throwing Archbishop Jose Guzman and his aged aunt into the street. This was heretofore reported by priests and is now confirmed. The church at Hula was similarly sacked, and three priests have been carried out of the district since the revolution began.

Rebels Hunting Bandits
DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 16.—Five hundred Constitutionalists from the garrison at Naco and Agua Prieta, Nogales and Cananea under Major Cabanaz are pursuing federal filibusters who burned several bridges along the border Sunday. They are believed to be hiding in the San Jose mountains south of Naco. The Constitutionalists have orders to exterminate the bandits if captured. It is believed there are about two hundred federalists in the gang.

OPPOSITION TO HOME RULE MUST ACT

Asquith Calls on Members to Say Whether They Accept or Reject Compromise

LONDON, March 16.—The Irish Home Rule bill was up in the House of Commons again today, and the floor and galleries were packed. Premier Asquith spoke on the bill, and said the administration has offered all in the way of concessions that it expects to offer. He indicated that the anti-Home Rulers must accept the compromise offered or nothing. After a detailed speech explaining the manner of the operation of the bill and explicitly explaining the changes he is willing to make, the Premier put the matter squarely up to the members of the opposition, demanding to know whether they will accept or reject the compromise.

"Mother" Jones is Released—Is to Avoid Strike Zone

DENVER, March 16.—"Mother" Jones, the famous woman strike leader, was released from custody by the military authorities when she was brought from Trinidad today. She was arrested on January 17. General Chase said she has promised to leave the strike zone, where she agitated sentiment for the strikers in the coal mines, causing her arrest. General Chase said: "This old woman is the most dangerous strike agitator in the country. When I arrested her I told her I would release her whenever she promised to leave the country."

FLAMES RAGE IN SAN ANTONIO CANON

Power Houses in Path Barely Saved—Fire-fighters Busy—Fire Veers With Wind

POMONA, March 16.—Fire started today in San Antonio Canyon. An immense volume of smoke is visible and although there is no direct word from the scene heavy damage is feared. Fighters were sent from Ontario, Upland, Pomona and Claremont. A fire started in Eve's canyon, set fire to the underbrush and the wind swept the fire down the canyon, quickly spreading it to the surrounding ridges. The Sierra Power Company power house was saved after a hard fight. The roof caught fire several times. Two hundred men are fighting fire around the Ontario power company's power house. Eighteen packing houses here have been closed, sending the employees out to fight the fire. The high school was also closed and two hundred boys went to the fire line to aid the fighters. Late this afternoon the wind changed and it appeared as if the fire would be controlled, or would work away from the places where heavy damage was likely. Camp Baldy appeared to be out of the path of the flames.

MASONIC LODGE IS BEQUEATHED $25,000

Mrs. Mary J. Smith Leaves Most of Property to Fullerton Masons

HER RELATIVES TO GET ABOUT $1,700

Wants One-Third for Charity, Rest as a Memorial to Husband

By the will of Mrs. Mary Jennings Smith, who died at Anaheim on Feb. 25, the Masonic lodge of Fullerton is to receive about $25,000. Mrs. Smith was the widow of James A. Smith, who was owner of La Cinda Rancho of Fullerton, a 40-acre ranch, in which the estate of Mrs. Smith has an interest of $20,000.

Mrs. Smith's first will, also filed by Attorneys Head & Marks, who represent the petitioners, B. G. and E. E. Balcom, who are named as executors, was written before Smith's death. The latest will was written on Jan. 14, 1914. The petition states that the estate is valued at $27,533.88.

The will leaves $500 to a niece of the deceased, Mrs. James Ware of Brooksville, Ky.; $500 to a nephew, E. L. Walker of Denver; $500 to a nephew, Will Miller of Felicity, O.; $100 to a grand-niece, Melicia Miller of Felicity, O.; $100 to a friend, Carrie Tatman, of Felicity, O.; and $500 to the Masonic lodge at Felicity, O. The remainder of the estate is bequeathed to the Fullerton lodge, 339, F. and A. M. The will suggests that one-third of the sum be invested for charitable purposes and the remainder be used by the Fullerton lodge in establishing some kind of a memorial to James A. Smith.

On the day following the making of the will, Mrs. Smith wrote a codicil by which she directed that her organ be left to the Episcopal church of Anaheim and that all her household goods and personal belongings be left to a neighbor, Mrs. Lew Edwards.

PAVING OF EAST FOURTH UP IN THE AIR

While Werdin Has Vrooman Contract, Crandall Has Private Contract

ENGLISH PASSES IT TO CITY ATTORNEY

Crandall Agrees to Do the Work for Two Cents Under Werdin's Bid

Who is going to pave East Fourth street from the Santa Fe railroad to the east city limits?

The L. A. Paving Co. has been awarded the contract at 14 cents a square foot, on Vrooman Act proceedings, but Contractor Crandall, who is paving South Birch street, has 80 per cent of the property owners signed up on a private contract for 12 cents per square foot.

The situation offers a legal tangle for City Attorney Heathman to ponder over, and the result of his investigations into the law of it will be made known at the meeting of the city trustees tonight.

For months, the project to pave East Fourth street has been kept prominently in mind by the owners of property on that street. Efforts to get all the property owners to sign any contract for paving by private contract failed, and the city trustees went at the job by the Vrooman Act. These proceedings resulted in the opening of bids on March 2. There were two bids, one of 14.25 cents per square foot, by Max L. Huberman, the contractor who has laid a number of streets in Santa Ana in the last two years, and the other 14 cents by the L. A. Paving Co., represented by E. R. Werdin, who has done considerable paving in Orange and Anaheim. While Huberman was low on culverts, Werdin was low on the paving, and City Engineer Finley figured out the bids to be: Werdin, $23,226; Huberman, $23,309. Crandall did not bid.

The award of contract was passed by the city board, and Werdin has moved some of his machinery here to commence work on the job.

But Crandall has been busy. It seems that previous to the closing of Vrooman Act proceedings he had a large proportion of the property owners on the street signed to a contract to pave the street at less than the price that would be named in the lowest bid under the Vrooman Act proceedings. After the figure of 14 cents was named by Werdin, Crandall then proceeded to secure private contract signatures for the same paving, which calls for a five-inch base and an inch and a half wearing surface, at 12 cents. The culverts are the same as in Werdin's bid.

Today Crandall demanded of Street Superintendent English a permit to enter on the street to do the paving by private contract. English did not know what to do, and he passed the whole thing up to the city attorney for instructions.

There seems to be little question but that a private contract entered into after the Vrooman Act proceedings would stand as against the city's contract with the low bidder under the Vrooman Act proceedings. Evidently, however, Crandall will contend that his contract was made before the closing of the proceedings, as he has contracted to do the paving at less than any price that might be named by the bidders.

Out of a total of about 6500 feet frontage on the street, Crandall has 5500 signed to his private contract. Under the law a private contract with 75 per cent of the frontage signed to it, gives the contractor a right to proceed with the work. Crandall, with 80 per cent signed, claims the right to go to work.

Werdin, with a Vrooman Act contract also claims that right.

THIRD BETROTHAL AT WHITE HOUSE IS NOW REPORTED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—With hardly time given to catch its breath after news of the coming wedding of Miss Eleanor Wilson, the president's youngest daughter, to William G. McAdoo, Washington society yesterday was discussing even more breathlessly the reported engagement of Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's eldest daughter, to Boyd Fisher of Princeton, N. J.

Although previously this report had been denied promptly, this time no denial was forthcoming, and society was inclined to take it seriously.

ORANGE COUNTY IS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF AGE THIS MONTH

Value of Taxable Property Increases Over Five Times the Amount Since County Was Formed

Twenty-five years ago on the 11th of this month the then governor of California put his signature to a bill entitled "An Act to Create the County of Orange," which had just passed the legislature.

Phenomenal Growth
The growth of the county since its formation has been nothing less than phenomenal. A comparison of figures shows that the value of taxable property in the county has increased five times the amount of the assessed valuation of 1891, this year being the earliest of which records are available at the court house.

In 1891 the value of county real estate was $6,142,565; the total of improvements, $1,526,465; of personal property, $1,125,460; of railroads, $557,162; total of all property, $10,451,552.

In 1913 county real estate had an assessed valuation of $27,433,145; improvements, $7,319,945; personal property, $7,060,570; money, $73,575; operative property, $2,559,970; railroads, $3,347,388; total, $48,185,593.

The greatest increase has been during the last three years, the gain having amounted to about $18,000,000 since 1910, at which time the total valuation of the county was placed at $30,597,532.

Estimate for 1914
County Assessor Sleeper estimates that the total of county property assessments for this year will exceed $53,000,000.

Low Tax Rate
In 1891 the tax rate was $1.35. In 1913 the rate was fixed at $1.45. This is a remarkable showing when it is considered that the county has a total bond issue of $1,457,000 and that there are but four California counties with a larger bonded indebtedness. Los Angeles county, for instance, has an issue of $2,500,000.

In the matter of population Orange county has, of course, kept pace with the increase in property values. Federal census figures show that the county's population in 1890 was 13,532; in 1900, 19,656; in 1910, 34,436. It is safe to estimate that the county population now runs considerably over 35,000.

The census showed the population of Santa Ana to be, in 1890, 3,290; in 1900, 4,933; in 1910, 8,429. While this last figure is not strictly in accord with the claims made for Santa Ana here recently, there can be no doubt that, in consideration of the city's rapid growth in the last four years, 15,000 is not an extravagant estimate of the present population.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BURNING OF HOUSE

Mystery surrounds the burning of Fred Keller's new home at 1921 Logan street last night about 8 o'clock. The disappearance of a $100 diamond ring from a dresser drawer is but one of several circumstances that have kept the officers busy guessing.

The house was finished only a short time ago and had been occupied but a month. It cost $1500, and carried $1000 insurance. Furniture moved from another house to this house was insured for $200. New furniture, including a $275 piano, that cost $600 was destroyed, and it carried no insurance.

The house was occupied by Fred Keller, a barber who has his shop at 1023 East Fourth street, and his wife and Mrs. Keller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stevens. Last night the house was locked up while the occupants were away.

It was about 8 o'clock when the fire was first discovered. Mr. Fleishman and Constable Frank Heard were among the first to rush to the house. Fleishman broke in a side door and dragged out a chair and table, but had to desist on account of the flames. At the rear of the house Constable Heard found Ed Molino and Steve Perez, who were breaking in the back door. A garden hose was turned on, but the stream was useless. The firemen arrived and made short work of getting the fire under control. The roof is burned out, and what framework is left is ruined. The furniture was so badly burned that it is of no value. Some of the articles in bureau drawers escaped harm. Practically all of the clothing in the house was destroyed.

The home represented the savings of three years. It carried a mortgage. It is believed that the fire started in a bedroom at the northwest corner. In that room is a dresser with a small secret drawer in which Mrs. Keller kept several pieces of jewelry. She stated that it was a $100 diamond ring and an opal ring belonging to her and a set ring belonging to her mother, Mrs. Joe Stevens. In searching for her valuables after the fire Mrs. Keller opened this drawer and found that the rings were gone. Immediately after the fire, Constable Heard and Officer Lacy quizzed Molino. Molino said that he and Steve Perez were walking south along the street when the fire broke out and an old grey-haired man ran out of the front door. Molino said he took the garden hose and went in through the front door, and battled with the flames alone. He said Perez got only to the front door and backed out.

"I was the hero, all right," said Molino. Molino was taken to jail and booked as "drunk." An effort was made to find Perez last night, but he was not located. All the neighbors say that there was no old woman about the house, and the constable says he found Perez and Molino at the rear of the house. Possibly Molino's desire to show up in the light of a hero caused him to tell the story he did.

After the fire tests of the meter and the connections were made by two linemen, and they declare that from the conditions that they found they were satisfied that the fire was not due to a short circuit. While the doors of the house were locked, Keller states that the window to the front bedroom was open. In considering the robbery theory, one thing Keller does not understand is why a burglar should have taken the rings and overlooked a valuable watch in another drawer of the dresser.

DEATH RIOTS IN JAPAN

Many Known Dead in Akita—Towns of Kowakuba and Katameno Wrecked

TERRIFIC ERUPTION OF ASAMA FOLLOWS QUAKE

Fate of Hundreds of Miners in Amono River Valley Still Unknown

TOKIO, March 16.—Heavy loss of life and great property damage is indicated by what little could be learned concerning the conditions at prefecture of Akita, on the island of Honshu, where a violent earthquake on Sunday was followed by an eruption of the volcano Asama Yama. Railroad and wire communication has been interrupted. It seems certain that the towns of Kowakuba and Katameno were wrecked and that the important city of Akita suffered severely. Official reports say eighty-three are already known to be dead at Akita. Sixty bodies were found in the basin of the Omono River, where 320 houses were destroyed.

Akita is a garrison town on the Sea of Japan. It does a considerable export trade, especially in rice. The population of the city is about 30,000. Asama Yama is the largest active volcano in Japan. A majority of its active periods have been productive of showers of ashes only. Its last great eruption was in 1783, when several villages on the north side of the mountain were obliterated by huge streams of lava. The crater is about three-quarters of a mile in circumference.

ST. IGNATIUS COLLEGE RECORDS VAST QUAKE
CLEVELAND, March 16.—The St. Ignatius College seismograph recorded today the severest earthquake that its records have noted for many years. It began at 2:36 and continued for more than an hour intermittently, no continuous shock lasting for more than two minutes. Director Odenbach believes the shocks were probably central somewhere in Japan.

Says London Speech Misquoted—Reserve Bank Matters Put Off Till April 1

WASHINGTON, March 16.—That American Ambassador Page of London is simply misunderstood, was the opinion President Wilson expressed while discussing today the ambassador's recent speech in London, in which he referred to the canal tolls question and the Monroe doctrine. President Wilson explained that the synopsis of the speech as it appeared in the United States was full of misquotations, due both to omissions and additions by correspondents. He seemed certain that the radical statements attributed to Ambassador Page could be modified by the text of the speech, which is due at the state department in two days.

The President said he had given no serious consideration to applications or suggestions for appointments to the reserve board under the new currency law. He said also that Secretary of Agriculture Houston's recent illness has delayed the final selection of reserve bank cities and that announcements would probably be delayed until April 1.

The president has been informed that the American Federation of Labor has appealed to several congressmen specifically to exempt trade unions from the operation of the administration's proposed anti-trust legislation, but no appeal has been made to the president personally.

The president indicated that there is practically no new development in the Mexican situation in its relations to the United States.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Hereafter vessels of the navy will be christened with the words, "I name thee in the name of the United States," instead of the old formula of "I christen thee."

HUNTINGTON BEACH SEWER BONDS GET PREMIUM

Construction of System Will Begin Soon—Site for City Hall

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 16.—Torrance, Marshall & Company were the successful bidders for the $35,000 sewer bonds just issued by this city. The bonds sold at a premium of $210, plus accrued interest. The money for the construction is at once available.

The city council at its last meeting accepted two sites offered by the Huntington Beach Company, one for a park on Seventeenth street and the other for a city hall, also on Seventeenth street. The site for the park had already been improved by the Huntington Beach Co., and is covered with flowering trees and shrubs. The acceptance of the block of land by the city insures its permanent use as a park.

The site of the future city hall is on Walnut and Seventeenth streets, in the first block back from the water front. The terms of the gift, which is a very valuable one owing to the choice nature of the property, call for the construction of the city hall within five years.

The Pacific Light and Power Company has finished its transmission line into Huntington Beach, and at the last session of the city council was granted a franchise for the distribution of its light and power here. This will supplement the installation now owned by the Huntington Beach Company, with which a working arrangement is being reached.

Conductor—"Beg pardon, ma'am, for dropping the nickel; I'll get it for you right away. Excuse these gloves too—they get so dirty handling the money, my wife hates to wash 'em. Says she can't get 'em clean."

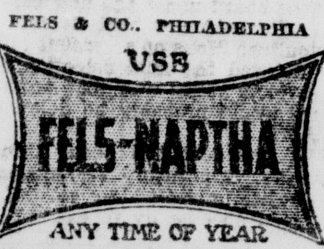

Anty Drudge—"Well, that's a sad state of affairs. Get her to try Fels-Naptha Soap and she'll complain no more about washing your clothes. No backaches from Fels-Naptha or hard work either. Your wife can do a day's washing before noon if she uses it."

When Fels-Naptha Soap is used the hanging out is the hardest part of the washing.

No boiling.
No fire to keep red hot; no tiring and tedious rub-a-dub on the wash-board.

Fels-Naptha Soap itself does the hardest part of the washday work—loosening the dirt in cool or lukewarm water.

THE "ARMY" OF THE UNEMPLOYED

Samples of the Speeches and Statements of the Leaders

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—The following are samples of the speeches and statements given out by the "Army of the Unemployed" at Sacramento:

Miss Ida Adler, 26 years of age, who was traveling with the "Army," said in one of her speeches, among other things: "We wish the governor would call out the militia. They would all side with us and we would drive the residents of Sacramento from the city and take possession ourselves. We will show the officials both in this city and the state that we are not to be trifled with. You just bet your life that Governor Johnson or nobody else wants to fool with us."

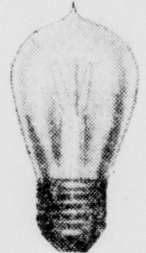

"And as for your city, we would like to see them refuse us transportation. We would stay right here and make all of you feed us. There is no such thing as refusing us food, you know, not if your officials have any regard for their own welfare and for the welfare of your citizens. Everybody has got to eat and we will get something no matter what we have to do."

Miss Adler described the state and city officials of Sacramento, the adjutant general and other authorities as "parasites and bums." She predicted that were the militia called out to drive the "Army" from the city, Sacramento would be the scene of a bloody Sunday, much worse than the one at Wheatland."

"General" W. H. Kelley of the "Army" declared that if food was not supplied, the members of the "Army" would terrorize the city. He explained that they would be released in squads of fifty each to go out into the city and obtain food. Kelley did not approve of acts of violence, he said, but was very careful to explain that he would be unable to control the men should they become hungry.

"Burglary, robbery, and even murder might occur if these men get loose in the city," was the specific statement of the "General."

Kelley was more or less guarded in his statements, but he gave out intimations as to his inability to control his men if they were not properly cared for, and constantly held up a picture of grave menace to the people of Sacramento.

J. S. Randolph, one of the "Army" speakers, said: "None of us is armed, but we have got all your officials buffaloed, and what's more, they know it. They say they are going to send us to San Francisco. We won't go unless we want to, and we don't want to. If we should agree to be deported to San Francisco, we would come right back to Sacramento and we would come prepared to meet the entire state militia man to man."

When, under complete authority of law, the "Army" was being ousted from the railroad lot, one fanatical leader waved his hat and shouted: "Men, spread all over town and spread Sabotage with you. Destroy, if need be, kill. It is your property, you made it, you create all wealth. Sabotage! Sabotage! Sabotage!"

W. A. Thorne, one of the recognized leaders of the "Army," said in an interview: "I want to say right now that if the police don't release the six men arrested last night for ordering a meal and refusing to pay for it, there is going to be a demonstration. If we can get out of this lot, we will march to the police station and demand that the men be given freedom, and if our demands are met with refusal, we will make such a racket they will have to arrest all of us."

Ed. Mears, one of Kelley's followers, appealed to the Chief of Police and city officials of Sacramento, the adjutant general and other authorities as "parasites and bums." She predicted that were the militia called out to drive the "Army" from the city, Sacramento would be the scene of a bloody Sunday, much

I am a law abiding American citizen, and I had to get out of that band, which counts some lawless men among its number.

"This 'Army' is only one of others that will follow. I know this to be absolutely a fact. They are going to gather east, west, north and south, and they are going to wander in every direction and you will have the same problem whether you send them east, west, north or south. One of these bands is here. What are you going to do about it?"

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat Less Meat if You Feel
Backachy or Have Bladder
Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidney disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

PAIR OF WINNERS

Saturday County Track Meet
Was Won by Orange
High School

[BY F. H. MITCHELL]

The way that records were ballooning Saturday was one of the main features of the ninth annual track and field meet for the Orange county high schools, which was won by Orange High with a score that reached the half century mark. Santa Ana took second with a total of 30½ points; Fullerton, third, 23½ points; Anaheim, fourth, 15. Huntington Beach was only able to score a second place in the high jump which netted 3 points.

The most sensational performance of the meet was the machine-like action of Clarence Beebe of the Mother Colony school. This long, lanky fellow was conceded the half mile and mile events, but no one expected that unpaired he would clip more than a second from his own record for this event. The former Pacific coast record for the half mile was 1 minute 59.4 seconds and Saturday this human jack rabbit romped around the oval in the last time of 1 minute 58.25 seconds, cutting his former record by 1.15 seconds, making a record that is liable to stand for some time unless Beebe should take a notion to make a new one for the rest of them to run after. Beebe also took the four-lap event in the good time of 4 minutes 38.4 seconds, slicing off almost 10 seconds from his record. This is a new county record.

Orange owes her victory to the Murray brothers, these twins making 23 of the 50 points earned by this school.

Another county record was annexed by Verl Murray when he breasted the tape in 229-yard low hurdles, going over the barriers in the fast time of 25.15 seconds, taking two seconds from the record. Murray also took the high kick event for 120 yards, negotiating 120 yards with the barriers in the fast time of 16.25 seconds, equaling the county record held by Fred Kelly, the now famous hurdler. This particular person of the Murray family made 18 of the 50 points that were cornered by the winners. He is a comer and if he gets to the right college he will turn out a wonder.

Fullerton grabbed one county record, and the young man who turned the trick was a young fellow by the name of Emery in the discus throw. Emery took this event with a throw of 169 feet 6 inches, which was nine feet further than the next man could toss the thing.

There was a little dope upset Saturday in the quarter mile race when Douglas was nosed out of first place by Earl Murray of Orange.

Eddie Fahey of Santa Ana was one of the bright spots of this grueling contest. Being the smallest of all the entrants, the little fellow was not counted on for a point, but he gave them all a surprise when he took the lead at the start and held it for 400 yards only to be passed by his more experienced rivals. Douglas was only able to get second place. The finish of this race was a sight to behold.

There were only three first places taken by the local school and they were taken by "Jumbo" Anderson in the high jump, Bert Rowley in the pole vault and Ernest Plavan in the broad jump.

Numerous close finishes marked the event.

Couch Hall deserves great credit for the bunch of boys that he had working for their school in the contests Saturday on the Poly High grounds. With only two or three of last year's victorious team together he was forced to bring out a new team nearly all the way through and unless unheard of things should happen Hall should have a bunch of winners under his wing next year.

The contests closed with the half mile relay which was won by Orange in 1 minute 35 seconds, finishing with a long lead.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

CITY POLICE RAIDED ALEX. ALLEG'S HOUSE

Officer Lacy Sees No Reason
Why He Should Not Have Flying-Machine

Santa Ana's police, headed by City Marshal Jernigan, raided Alex. Alleg's house at 1609 West Fifth street last night and took eight men and three women to the county jail. The officers have had the place under suspicion for a long while, and by careful work finally secured the evidence that resulted in the raid. Charges of selling liquor may be brought today.

Went Up a Tree

Officers Lacy and Gilbert think that the city police ought to be equipped with flying machines. They needed one yesterday when they went to capture H. Boyart. Boyart was seen on French street between Fifth and Sixth acting in a strange manner. When the officers arrived the man had disappeared. Lacy thought the man had faded into thin air, but Wilbur Waser told him the man had climbed a tree. That is exactly what had happened. The man was in the topmost branches of an acacia tree in front of the Emmanuel Baptist Church. It took a lot of coaxing before the man would descend. He said he had taken just one drink. The officers took him to jail on suspicion of insanity. He says he works on a paving gang.

Gave Bear Away

D. Sanchez, Crulo Gano and Serrano Bonello were arrested Saturday night by City Marshal Jernigan and Officers Ryan and Hamilton. There was a Spanish dance on East First near the Santa Fe, and beer was given away to the guests or patrons.

STANDARD OIL PLANNING TO INCREASE ITS STOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16--Upon recommendation of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of California, stockholders of that corporation met today to vote on the proposed increase in the authorized capital stock from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. It was a foregone conclusion to day that the stockholders would take any action recommended by the board of directors. At present the company has $45,000,000 of stock at 290, which represents an investment of more than $130,000,000 so that under the assumption that the new stock, if issued will be distributed as a bonus, will have a market value of $130 a share.

THE PLACE OF POETS IN MODERN LIFE

Poets are always considered fair game for newspaper humorists. There is no closed season on them, for the spring poet bobs up indefinitely, regardless of temperatures and seasons. And persons who live so much in a world of imagination apart, usually have some eccentricities at which the jokesmiths naturally aim pleasant jests.

A real poet has still a large place in modern life. The fact is emphasized by the invitation just extended to Alfred Noyes, the brilliant and rhythmical English poet, to lecture four months each year at Princeton university.

There is always a demand for good poetry though the pecuniary returns are usually small. The space given by the newspapers to printing verses is still large. Much of it is doggerel alleged to be humorous. But a good deal of it is at least an effort to express joy and sorrow in an elevated and imaginative way.

The troubles of the poetry editor of magazines and newspapers come from the fact that nine-tenths of the people who try to write verse have no conception of what the essential elements of poetry are. The popular idea is that it is a string of verses tacked together the lines of which end in rhyme. Rhyme, however, is only one of the smaller elements in real poetry, and may not be found at all.

The essence of real poetry is a gift for expressing human sentiments in an imaginative way, having some peculiar beauty of expression. A very rhythmical wording, along which the mind dances in a metrical way, is much more important than rhyme. It is this singing and dancing gift of verse that has been one of the principal factors in giving Mr. Noyes his large success here and in England.

Lacking some suggestion of these gifts, the poetry scribblers may well be cautious how they spend too many postage stamps in efforts to market their "stuff." Their effusions may be pleasing to the participants in golden weddings and old folks' reunions, but only the most accommodating of newspapers will print them unless advertising rates are paid for the space occupied.

ARMY EFFICIENCY

Some people want two battalions built yearly, others want four, while some wish none at all. Yet all these diverging points of view should agree in this, that our military forces should be organized with the efficiency of a private corporation, and so systematically that they could fight at the traditional drop of a hat.

During the few days that the Benton incident seemed to reach the proportions of a real war-cloud, many citizens were anxiously asking what our army could do if called on to act in a hurry.

Over in England some years ago a government was turned out of power merely because it allowed the supply of ammunition to get low. In this country, one questions whether a single clerk would lose his job on that account. The public is not much concerned over military affairs. What it principally wants is to get an army post located near by, where the soldiers will buy groceries and fodder, and help boom local trade.

At the army posts life goes on sleepily enough. Baby carts are a more familiar sight than gun carriages. The soldiers practice the art of war, when they aren't mowing the lawns, repairing the walks, or listening to the military band. A fine type of suburban village is built up, and a graceful and refined social life exists. But is it preparation for war?

American citizens have reason for pride in the development of the navy. Where only three per cent of the shots took effect at Santiago, in recent practice as many as forty-five per cent have been hits. But the army life is less spectacular. Efficiency here does not interest the people so much, and they do not demand it so strenuously. Bitter complaints are made by military students, that personal friendship and political considerations count too much in making promotions. If the army is called in to Mexico it will make a fine showing of courage and science, but it could do the job much more quickly if such defects could be done away with.

What Is That In Thine Hand?

The Register is not in full accord with those who protest against the public appearance of Helen Keller. Many individuals and some newspapers have done so. That it is a piteous thing to see and hear her is true. And if she were being exhibited by her friends and relatives against her will, or even through over-persuasion, it would be terribly wrong. But that is unbelievable.

Without any information as to her own attitude in the matter, we incline to the belief that Miss Keller herself desires to appear in public. Even if her motive was the making of money it would be entirely justified; for she has just as good right to make money as anybody else, whether for maintenance of herself and her teacher and others, or for the accomplishment of some special purpose.

But it is altogether probable that her motive is or her motives are far and away better and higher than mere money making. Certainly the result, whatever the motive, is more than can be counted in dollars.

No one can listen to the story of Helen Keller's heroic struggle for intellectual and spiritual light and life, for self-expression, for usefulness, and contemplate the resourcefulness, patience and devotion of her teacher, without learning a lesson well worth while. And then to have that lesson impressed upon the mind and heart by seeing and hearing the modern miracle we call Helen Keller—Who can ever forget it or fail to profit by it?

What a rebuke for the weakling who succumbs to pessimism or self-pity!

What a rallying cry to the beaten and discouraged soul!

What a burst of sunshine into dark places!

What a pean of praise to the God-like attribute of mind!—that dauntless, deathless thing that cannot be beaten or imprisoned or annihilated.

If this poor deaf, dumb, blind girl could summon to her aid the imperious will and intellectual power that broke her bonds and made her free—yea, not only free, but a princess in the realm of intellect and spirit—what should ever be permitted to daunt the soul of the normal man or woman!

There was once a man to whom a hard and many-sided task was given. The man was Moses and the task was nothing less than to lead a vast company of slaves out of distressful bondage.

The man began to hem and hesitate. "I am but a plain man," he said. "I am not gifted in speech as my brother Aaron is. I have no armies, no chariots of war. The Pharaoh is powerful. What can I do against his tremendous resources?"

Then out of the sky came the strange question: "What is that in thine hand?"

Now Moses, being a keeper of flocks, held in his hand at the moment a shepherd's crook. Perhaps this was nothing more than a twisted stick cut from a neighboring bush. He held it up in amazement. "This is all I have," he said. "Very well; cast it down before me," came the voice. "Now take it up again and go on your way." Moses was wise to obey. And that stick became the mightiest instrument of freedom the world has seen.

We are all too prone to waste time hemming and hesitating. We are apt to overestimate the appliances of the other man and to underestimate our own. We long for larger resources. But meanwhile—what is that in thine hand? Do the best you can with what you've got.—From the Country Gentleman.

If Helen Keller's public appearance does no more than make men and women ponder these things in their hearts she is laying up for herself treasures in heaven.

ECHOES FROM THE LONG AGO ARE HEARD AT SAN JUAN

Search for Buried Treasure—Marriage of Descendant of Spanish Grandee—Oil and Orchard Developments

(STAFF CORRESPONDENCE)

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, March 16.—There is treasure to be had for the digging, as all know, on every California hill and in every California vale and meadow, but according to tradition there is a special treasure buried on the ranch of Williams Bros. and Rutan, situated one and a half miles north of the quaint old mission pueblo of San Juan Capistrano, on the southern edge of Orange county.

The legend runs that in the troubled days of the war with Mexico in 1846, the padre in charge of the mission Capistrano, fearing for the safety of the gold and silver sacramental services and the other treasures of the church, gathered them together, and with the aid of two Indians, buried them at night at the foot of one of the giant sycamores on what is now the Williams' Ranch. The Indians, so the legend runs, were killed at the same time and buried with the treasure, to maintain the secret, and the padre himself being afterwards killed during the war, the exact location of the burial place was lost among men.

But the custodians of the tradition are emphatic that the ground around one of those sycamores is the spot, and now the ranch owners are uprooting the sycamores, replacing them with walnut and orange trees, and piping the ranch for irrigation.

The other day on discharging a shot of dynamite, B. C. Swisshelm, who is in charge of the work, discovered at a great depth the thigh bone of a male of great stature, a number of other apparently human bones badly disintegrated, an old revolver of an antiquated type, and a jug of equally ancient design.

All of the sycamores are to be removed, and Mr. Swisshelm feels confident that if that treasure is there he will exhumate it; if not the future will gather a vastly greater one from the golden fruit of the new orange groves which will be planted on the site.

On Wednesday, March 11, Mr. Lloyd Patterson, assistant station agent, and Miss Belle Forster, of San Juan Capistrano, were married in Los Angeles.

The bride is the daughter of Marco Forster, granddaughter of Don Marco, and great-granddaughter of Don Juan Forster, who married the sister of Pío Pico, the last Spanish governor of California.

Old Don Juan, like Pío Pico, was one of the historical characters of early California, in his day lorded it with patriarchal power and dignity over enormous domains from his princely hacienda in San Juan Capistrano, now a hotel.

Those domains have mostly passed into alien hands to be cultivated in small tracts by intensive and thrifty Americans, and the descendants of Don Juan and Pío Pico are mostly gathered closely in and around the old pueblo of San Juan Capistrano, within the shadow of the old mission that sits brooding on her gentle eminence looking down upon the little adobe town, which in exterior aspect is only little changed from the days of Spanish dominion, and which more than any other mission in California preserves the flavor and atmosphere, both in people and architecture, of the early days.

Interest in oil development in the vicinity of Capistrano is kept to a high pitch just now, as both the Standard and Union Oil companies have representatives on the ground. Dr. J. E. Strong and W. B. Keel, who have been here for some time, have recently leased from John and Frank Forster, C. Echiquie and Father Queta, about 10,000 acres. The lease is to be developed for oil, probably in the interests of the Union Oil Co., as that company's geologist was here for about three weeks working in conjunction with the lessees.

This transaction marks the culmination of negotiations that have been in progress since last August between the parties in interest, and undoubtedly marks, as well, the beginning of active development work on a vast scale.

D. P. McGarry, of Los Angeles, and Wm. P. Malone of New York, were here Saturday consulting with the Forsters, and their allied interests, supposedly on the part of the Standard Oil Co., whose vigilance seldom allows its competitors to obtain much advantage, either in time or opportunity, and still less frequently overlooks a promising field.

E. R. Guirado, proprietor of San Juan Hot Springs, 12 miles north of town, was in Capistrano Saturday and reports prospects for the season's business as being excellent, now that the roads are being put in good condition.

Lenten services with the solemn and imposing ritual of the Catholic church, are being regularly held in the old mission under the direction of Father Sullivan, whose loving care and devotion are doing so much to maintain and restore the historic sacred edifice.

These services, while largely an everyday matter to the residents, provide a rare treat to the tourists who have the opportunity of attending them, as this mission is one of the very few in California where services are conducted in the original church and, in every way substantially as they were held by the old padres and their Indian converts.

Judge Landell went to San Diego Friday morning on important legal and real estate business.

Jerome O'Neil of Oceanside was in Capistrano Saturday, giving personal attention to his very extensive business interest hereabouts.

Mrs. Blanche L. Dolph, of Laguna and Santa Ana, was in San Juan Capistrano last week, making arrangements for the erection of a residence at Dana's Point, San Juan mountain.

LOCAL SUPERVISORS ARE NOT PLEDGED TO BUY STATE BONDS

Orange county's supervisors attended the meeting of supervisors of counties between San Francisco and San Diego. This meeting was held in Los Angeles Saturday and a resolution was passed to the effect that the various counties should buy state highway bonds so that the state road between San Francisco and San Diego can be finished for 1915.

The Orange county supervisors made no pledges, and their intentions were not disclosed. While it has been understood that the local supervisors looked with favor upon the purchase of $200,000 of the bonds to finish the road through this county, that detail was not up for remarks or discussion Saturday.

"GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN THAT THIS"—GEN. BOOTH'S CAREER

General Booth, the late famous founder and head of the Salvation Army, thus epitomized his career: "When I started my work I gave up the friendship of the people of the better class. I gave up the hope of wealth and I abandoned ambition. Now I have found all that I gave up. Had I wished I could be wealthy. My publications have brought me thousands of pounds, but every cent of it has gone back as it came, for the betterment of the conditions of humanity, for making people happy. Similarly, I have the best friends in all classes, and, so far as ambition is concerned, if I am not the best known man in the world, I am prayed for the most."

WILL MAKE NOVEL DEMONSTRATION WITH CARTERCAR

Tomorrow at 3 O'clock Local Agent of Friction-Drive Car Will Prove Strength of Transmission and Pulling Power of Motor

R. L. Draper, local agent for the Cartercar, is arranging a novel demonstration of the Cartercar for tomorrow afternoon—a demonstration that will test the strength of the friction drive as well as the power of the motor. The friction drive has made the car famous as a pleasure vehicle, and promises to make trucks of that manufacture of equal popularity. Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock Draper will take one of his stock five-passenger, 30-horsepower cars and hitch it to three wagons loaded with lumber, the combined weight of the latter being 25,000 pounds. From a standing start he proposes to haul the big load through the business sections of Fourth and Main streets. If the passenger car can walk off with a load like that from a standing start, it surely will be performing something. Draper has no doubt about the result, and he will challenge the agents of any gear-driven car in the city to duplicate the feat.

A SPRING PARTY

Flowers in Decorations, Flowers in Games for Merry Juvenile Event

Mrs. Herbert P. Rankin was hostess on Saturday afternoon at a pretty juvenile spring party given for her pupils of the first class of the junior department of the First Presbyterian Sunday school. Appropriate to the name of the festivity, the house was beautiful with Spring flowers of all sorts, and the girls were entertained from one to five o'clock.

There were flower games, in some of which the names of flowers were used. The flower motif was also carried out in the cooling ice cream, the delicious confection being served in small flower pots with apricot blossoms in the center of the cream, resulting in the semblance of a small tree. Mrs. Rankin was assisted in serving and entertaining by Miss Hazel Rowley.

The young guests were Margaret Zimmerman, Florence Renshaw, Velma Miller, Miriam Baird, Frances Batty, Charlotte Zimmerman, Ruth Verrier, Mabel Collins, Iona Embry.

Successful Recital

Miss Carolyn Haughton gave one of her delightful musicals last Saturday afternoon in her studio. The program consisted of piano solos, duets and kindergarten demonstration. Little Miss Phyllis Hill especially delighted her audience in kindergarten work. Most of the numbers were given from memory, an important and pleasing feature in Miss Haughton's teaching.

Besides being a delight to those who listen, these recitals are of much value to those who take part, giving them an incentive to do more efficient work and training them to become accustomed to playing for others.

Mourns Brother's Death

The friends of Mrs. E. B. Norman will sympathize with her in the loss of her brother, Mr. Schrode of Duran, whose death took place at his home there yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Schrode had been ill for over a year, so seriously ill, indeed, as to necessitate the attendance of a trained nurse, but when Mrs. Norman went to Duran on Saturday to visit him she had no apprehension that the end was so near. Mr. and Mrs. Norman and Miss Lillian are at Duran for the funeral services.

Ebell French Section

French Section No. 2 of the Ebell will hold its first regular meeting at 2:20 Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Harry Hanson, 412 Orange avenue. This section is for beginners, and it is hoped to interest a large and enthusiastic number in the study of the French language. Ebell members wishing to join are requested to communicate with the curator, Mrs. E. M. Neale.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of the president, 423 East Pine street. Roll call will be responded to with "Irish Wit" suggestions. The topic for discussion will be the "Mission of St. Patrick and its Effect on Irish Character." Mrs. Flora M. M. Pyle will lead the discussion. A full attendance of members is desired.

ASKS EBELL MEMBERS TO OBSERVE ORANGE DAY

Mrs. A. J. Lawton, president of the Ebell Society of the Santa Ana Valley, requests that members of that society observe Orange Day, March 21, by sending postal cards to friends in the East, urging that California oranges be used. She has suggested that the postal cards be distinctive of Orange county. A telegram was received by Mrs. Lawton from the California Orange Day Committee, asking that steps be taken to observe the day, and Mrs. Lawton believes that the use of postcards will be effective.

At Fifth Street School

The Fifth Street Parent-Teacher's Association will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

Beach House Party

A party of gay young people went to Balboa Saturday afternoon to enjoy a week-end house party. Those joining in the jolly event were Miss Rena Stafford, Joy Baker, Larline Dickey, Mary Whipple, Alice Robinson, Zelma Sturgeon, Messrs. Jack Palmer, Leon Dickey, Ross Hostetter of Orange, Sterling Maxwell of Los Angeles, Ralph Dwyer and Leonard Baker with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gustlin chaperoning.

A marshmallow bake Saturday night, a launch ride and a sumptuous dinner on Sunday were features of the delightful week-end event.

Recital Tonight

As Mr. Cogswell of Los Angeles who appears in joint recital tonight with Alan A. Revell at the First Congregational Church, has to return to the city on the 9:25 car, the event will open promptly at 8 o'clock. Programs may be obtained at the door. An inviting program has been prepared, and doubtless the promise of a recital that promises to be all that can be desired from a music-lover's standpoint will tempt many people to be present, especially as the evening will doubtless be pleasingly cool after the warm day.

Past Matrons' Luncheon

The Past Matrons' Association will be entertained by Mrs. Chas. E. Radford, 639 North Birch street, at a St. Patrick's luncheon on Tuesday, March 17. The luncheon will be served promptly at 1 o'clock.

A business meeting of the association, with election of officers, will follow, which only members of the association will be permitted to attend.

Altar Society

This society will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George W. Young, 1309 Grand avenue, for an all day meeting and St. Patrick's dinner at noon. Those having no conveyance will be provided with transportation if they will call at the parish house by 10:30 o'clock Tuesday. All ladies of the congregation are invited to be present.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE

High School Play Among Best of Late Years—Near Professional Was Much of Acting

The play "Barbara Frietchie" given Saturday evening at the Grand Opera House by students of the high school under the direction of Ernest Crozier Phillips proved very successful, not only in attendance but also in its presentation. As regards numbers the audience was all that could be desired, there being very few seats unoccupied. The rendering of the play ranks among the best of any high school production seen here in recent years, there being very little stiffness or nervousness on the part of any of the players. The memorizing of the lines of the various characters was practically perfect. To sum it up it may be said that the entire performance indicated weeks of the most diligent and painstaking work on the part of all concerned in the production of the drama. In an amateur production of this kind the director deserves all the credit that is given him and Saturday evening's entertainment is no exception to the rule. Mr. Phillips certainly is entitled to much praise for the success of the play.

Space will not permit a lengthy discussion of each member of the cast but mention must be made of a few whose roles enabled them to make more of a display of their ability than others in the cast. Chief among these is Miss Mary Anderson, who was selected for the title role of the play. Her interpretation of Barbara Frietchie was excellent and was given in a near-professional style. The leading male character was taken by John Menges as Capt. Trumbull, the Union officer. Other principal characters and the parts they took were Corinne Burns as Sue Royce, Esther Johnson as Mrs. Hunter, Raymond Adkinson as Mr. Frietchie and Carl Adams as Col. Negley.

Here is the outline of the plot: Time, Civil War period. Jack Negley, a Southern boy is in love with Barbara. His suit is favored by Mr. Frietchie. Capt. Trumbull of the 57th Union cavalry arrives on the scene and wins Barbara's heart. Mr. Frietchie is strongly opposed. When Jack finds that Barbara has not returned his love he loses his mind. He joins the rebel army, swearing to kill Capt. Trumbull, but does not succeed. In a battle which follows, the southern troops are victorious. Capt. Trumbull is seriously injured by Arthur, Barbara's brother. He is taken to Mr. Frietchie's. Frietchie swears that he will not let him stay, but Barbara pleads with him and finally his love for his daughter overcomes his hatred for the north. Capt. Trumbull dies but Barbara through her love for him gives up her loyalty to the South and pledges her allegiance to the North.

The persons in the play were as follows: Barbara Frietchie...Mary Anderson Sally Negley...Helen Reensberg Sue Royce...Corinne Burns Laura Royce...Mary Crozier Mrs. Hunter...Esther Johnson Mammy Lu...Glady's Best Capt. Trumbull...John Menges Mr. Frietchie...Raymond Adkinson Arthur Frietchie...Melton Hatch Col. Rebekahs' Social Hour

On Saturday night last, Sycamore Rebekahs had a jolly social time following the brief business session. Under the head of "good of the order," Mrs. John Holt of Tustin appeared before the lodge and invited the members to a St. Patrick's supper in the banquet room. Mrs. Holt's appearance, as well as her announcement, elicited applause. She wore a sunbonnet, an apron of royal emerald hue, a green kerchief around her neck, and last but not least, she had a saucy looking pipe in her mouth.

In jolly humor the Rebekahs and their guests, the latter including a visitor from the East, proceeded merrily to the banquet room, where hot Irish stew, appetizing buns and delicious coffee were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Morgan. A big Irish flag adorned with shamrocks, a serpent and a harp, swung over the center of the table, and scattered about over the festive board were shamrocks in profusion, while the napkins bore similar designs. With such surroundings, jest and laughter and good nature flowed spontaneously.

"MOST MARRIAGES ARE FOUNDED ON PLATONIC LOVE—ON THE BRIDE'S PART," SAYS KATHERINE GREY

"Are marriages, founded on platonic love, justifiable?" Katherine Grey, the accomplished and intellectual actress, was asked. Miss Grey is the star of "The Rule of 3," a new farce, in which she manages two ex-husbands and one real husband. She does it successfully.

"Am I really the first man you ever loved?" demands her third husband.

"Of course you are," she replied. "The love with the other two was purely platonic."

"The question whether or not platonic marriages are justifiable is not the important question," said Miss Grey. "The important fact is that most of them are platonic, on the part of the brides at least. It doesn't make any difference whether they are or are not to be justified, they will continue."

"Most women," she continued, "wed for a name and independence of their parents or guardians, for a chance to be some one in a world of their own. They like their husbands, of course. They pick out the kind of men they can like. But most of the love is on the part of the husbands. The brides make a great pretense of love. Some of them do love; others learn to love after they have been married—if the husbands are gallant enough to make them learn."

"In Europe there isn't even the pretense of love, most marriages being settled by parents. Girls don't see enough of their fiancés before marriage to learn to love them unless it is a case of love at first sight. Some of them learn to love their husbands later, and some learn to love other women's husbands."

Miss Grey spends her leisure hours reading Kant and Hegel, dotes on Lamartine, and adores Huysmans. But Miss Grey sees nothing in this to surprise one. According to her own Hegel, life is a system of contraries, and for a thing to be true its opposite must also be true.

'A SOUTHERN FLOWER' EXCELLENTLY GIVEN

"A Southern Flower" given by the Woman's Relief Corps Saturday night was a signal success and the participants have received well and deserved praise for their interpretation of this beautiful story. The ladies of the Relief Corps deserve the best compliments for their enterprise, as the play was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, and the players frequently applauded throughout the acts.

"A Southern Flower" is a novel story, intensely human in all its phases, and one which was wisely selected for home talent purposes, as every part is within the reach of the home players, and each one in the present instance proved his or her ability in a splendid manner.

Miss La Rue Phips gave a pleasing rendition of France, the sweet, lovable girl who is the central figure of the play, and displayed perfect ease and grace. She was also particularly good in her pathetic scenes.

Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg as Mrs. Mathe Lee gave an excellent reading of the lines of this character, which she interpreted with due dignity and regard for the characteristics of this loyal Southern woman.

Mrs. J. H. Habbitt as the sonnetre was better than many professionals. She displayed a vivacity and humor in her acting which was a surprise to her friends and her work was far beyond the ordinary home player.

G. A. Gardner as Colonel Lee was good. He enacted the grave and dignified old southerner with ease and perfect regard for the character.

E. A. Attis as the heavy was a hard, conscientious worker, whose interpretation of the sinister Blackburn added much to the success of the play.

Paul Diablo the director, who also carried the male character, that of the vagabond, presented this noble type to the pleasure and delight of everybody. Not only is Mr. Diablo a splendid actor, but the work of his company shows able and painstaking direction.

The play will be repeated at the Temple Theater Wednesday evening.

Movies that Talk

There is a real treat in store for the theater-going public of Santa Ana when the Edison Talking Pictures will be shown for the first time at the Grand Opera House March 18 and 19. The Kinetophone has created more than an ordinary interest in New York and every large city from coast to coast, and everyone has exclaimed over the marvelous synchronism of sound and action.

Mr. Edison spent many sleepless nights perfecting his "talkies" and is naturally jealous of his great invention and is particularly anxious that none of the effects be marred by careless handling or incompetent workmanship of those not familiar with the installing of the Kinetophone. A force of mechanical experts, trained under the watchful eye of Mr. Edison personally, are entrusted with the installing of these wonderful machines. It is a part of the contract that none but the workmen from the Edison laboratories are permitted to put the wonder machine in operation.

"Judith of Bethulia"

This four-reel motion picture, telling the tragic story of Judith and Holofernes, will be shown at Clune's Theater for two nights, March 18 and 19. This is a masterpiece in moving picture productions, and the manager invites everybody, especially the church attending public to see this. Among the striking scenes in this

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Preached by Rev. George N. Greer, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, at the morning service of that church, Sunday, March 15, 1914.

"The greatest of these is love."—1 Cor 13:13.

We are told that the greatest thing in the world is love. Professor Drummond in one of his addresses asks the question: What is the summum bonum—the supreme good? Life is before you. Once only can you live it. What then is the noblest object of desire, the supreme gift to covet? We are sometimes told that Faith is the greatest thing in the religious world. In this chapter which we have just read, we have been led to view Christianity at its very source; and here at the very close of the chapter we are plainly told that "The greatest of these is love." It was not an oversight. Paul was speaking of faith just a moment before. He says: "If I have all faith, so that I can remove mountains, and have not love, I am nothing." He deliberately contrasts them: "Now abideth Faith, Hope, Love," and without any hesitation the decision is: "The greatest of these is love."

We hesitate by what word to name the glorious theme. Charity, the old version calls it; but this word is oftentimes used of giving to others' need, or thinking kindly of the faults or differences of others—such meanings are not broad enough to give the fuller meaning. Love is the better word; but even this word must be sanctified in our thought, as used by our Lord when He said that love to God and love to man fulfill all the law, and as it is exalted in that solemn and tender saying, "God is love." The word love must not be restricted to the emotions, but must pervade the heart, intellect, will, and conscience. No single title can express all its characteristics. It is a grace, but sturdy and majestic; a virtue, but thrilling with desire; an inspiration, yet gained by effort and patient self-control; divine, yet familiarly, sweetly human, full of song and joy. By love homes are adorned more richly than with furnishings and art. Love makes fair the face beyond cosmetics, arrays with finer splendors than silks and gems, gives a more winsome charm than the rules of etiquette can teach, bestows the polish of the best society, even that of God and the angels. Love is rich for this world and that which is to come; it is the vital breath and constant atmosphere of heaven. Love beams from the throne in unendurable brightness.

Following the apostles' description as best we can, let us consider:

1. The Value of Love. Love gives worth to all the faculties and powers by which the church is to bless the world. These Corinthian Christians had received those peculiar spiritual gifts granted to the early churches to prove that a new era had begun. Whatever use they had made of these, now they had become the occasion of strife and jealousy. Paul must tell them their mistake. He draws the picture of a man empowered with all supernatural gifts, but without love. To make sure of offending no one, he applies the description to himself, their apostle and teacher.

Though unearthly eloquence flowed from his lips, the deep things of God were opened to his knowledge, wonders wrought by his hands, wealth scattered lavishly on even beggars, his body yielded to a martyr's death, yet even though all this he accomplished—and yet if his soul was not kindled by that flame from

REV. GEO. N. GREER AND REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

God's own altar, he would be nothing. Others might be persuaded, and enriched by his ministrations; but his own spirit would remain unblest. Such are rarely chosen even for mouthpieces of God. We know how vain is the eloquence which does not come from the heart, and arguments not supported by life. Whoever was turned from sin by a hypocrite? How shall one prophesy, which means to speak for God, unless he grasps the innermost truth that "God is Love."

Acquire then accomplishments, develop talents, cultivate powers, plan, study with best skill to do the work of the church; but the inspiration of it all must be Christ-like love. This we say is the quickening spirit which pervades every grace. Without it all the activities of the best organized church make it nothing more than a theater, a show of wooden images in dolls' clothes, with unnatural voices thrust into their unmoving lips. Men with their discouragements, poverty, sins, and sufferings, want a power to reach their souls, help them to think and feel, and live more nobly. Children of earth they want to know how to be children of God. The Son of God gave not only his body, but gave himself. He healed men that they might help themselves. Good or bad, rich or poor, old or young, somehow they felt that He loved them.

What then is the power which can do such things?

This leads us to consider in the 2. A description of Love.

This description is largely negative, telling us what it is not; envying not, is not puffed up, seeketh not its own, is not provoked, rejoiceth not in unrighteousness. The sinners in that church must have felt that he was drawing their picture by contrast, but with such delicate tenderness that they could not be angry, but rather grieved and eager to do better. Love is the secret of self mastery, in which one bears himself secretly among the vexations and griefs of a troubled world, and arms himself against scorn and hatred. Love is the antidote for the poison of jealousy and suspicion. It is a noble courage and confidence in the might of saintly purposes to redeem a miserable and sinful world.

3. The Pre-eminence of Love.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED SORE, ACHING FEET

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet, swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more pain in corns, callouses or bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ."

"TIZ" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "TIZ" is magical; "TIZ" is grand; "TIZ" will cure your foot troubles so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore, swollen or tired.

Get a 25 cent box at any drug or department store, and get relief.

It excels all other gifts and graces; it outlasts them all. The apostle is swept forward to the blessed world to come, when childishness shall be outgrown, unperfected knowledge and utterances be done away, and dim and distorted views of God shall change to open sight. There will then be no need of human teaching, reproof, correction, or instruction in righteousness. Followers of earthly masters will look past them all to Christ; possessors of varying gifts will cast their crowns at the feet of Jesus.

In that clear glory will yet abide the deep spiritual forces which wrought through all these means—faith, hope, and love. "But the greatest of these is love"—the greatest, because without it the other two could not abide. We can neither trust nor desire where we do not first love. Faith would then be no better than the belief of trembling devils; hope would be an indifferent anticipation. But now faith is changed to sight; love does not merely see God, it actually possesses Him. Hope becomes increasing assurance and capacity; but love is abiding in Him, the dwelling in the secret place of the Most High, searching the deep things of God, discerning the hidden mystery which gave the Son and suffered the cross. Love never falters, for heaven is its triumph; is not outgrown, for it receives of the fullness of the Infinite; cannot be displaced by profounder knowledge or clearer vision, for it is knowing the true God and Jesus Christ whom He hath sent.

The study of these verses moves us to ask two questions: (1) Can we see this love embodied? Where is the man or the institution that has made this ideal actual? We search the Scriptures, yet do not find it in the chosen company of apostles, the churches they founded or addressed in their epistles, no, not even those which John saw held as stars in the hand of their Lord. Is there a man or a church that has ever made it real or perfect? John, strong and faintly, Peter, loving much? No, only in part. But one life ever walked in this majestic and perfect grace. The Master's name is not spoken in these verses; there is no need, since His countenance looks out from every line. He, and he alone, is the perfect embodiment of love.

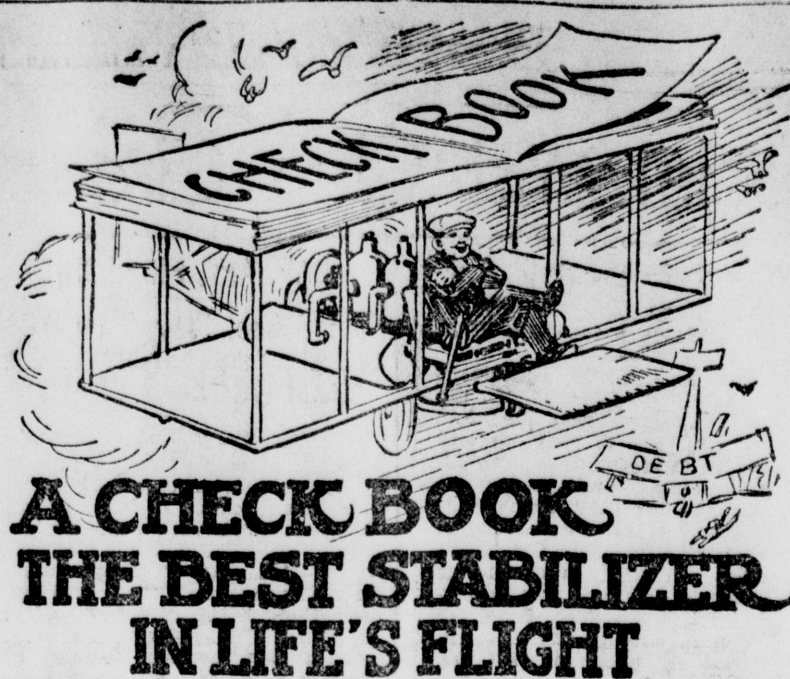

(2) Are we to aspire to it? Paul meets the Corinthian Christians to make this their own rule of life. Richard I. show you a more excellent way, follow after love. These words were written for our profit; they picture, indeed, the one sinless Lord; but Christians have no other model than Christ. "Follow after love," wherever that matchless life has left its footprints in the market place, or in the temple, among the benches, the counters, the fields where men struggle for bread, in unhappy homes, and by beds of sickness. Paul rebukes these sins very sternly; but rebuke is only half his message. With all their follies and shame pressing on his heart, he breaks away into this glorious rhapsody of love, saying: "This is for you brethren." We are to take it all for ourselves; we are to use it upon others; the more unloving they are, the more must we press the ideal. God meets sin with rebuke, carried on into promises; he slays darkness with light. The coming of God to men, with its startling accusations, has also its overwhelming assurances. The searching Spirit does not devote himself to disclosing guilt alone, but grace. "Where sin abounded grace did much more abound."

From this place we go forth to watch and pray with him, to be loyal to him, even among his enemies; for it is the Lord himself above all others who beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things, in bringing many sons to glory.

During a terrible winter years ago, an army, was fleeing from Moscow. In the army were a young German prince and some German soldiers. Many of the soldiers fell down and perished in the dreadful cold. One evening only a handful remained with the prince. They came to a ruined shed which had been built for cattle. There they sought shelter for the night. Hungry, cold and weary, they lay down to sleep. The men were rough and stern, yet when they saw their prince, used to comforts, spent heart and body, sleeping now in the fearful night, they were moved to pity. They took off their own cloaks and laid them gently on him as he slept. Then they lay down themselves and slept undisturbed. Morning came. The prince awoke, warm and refreshed. He raised his head. All was silent about him save the wild wind. Where were his men? He saw their forms covered with snow. He called; no answer. One glance and he saw all. Their cloaks were all piled upon him, and they were dead—dead through love for him.

Turn now your eyes toward the cross, and there is Jesus dead, while in your souls are the warm throbbings of life. You have peace, joy, hope, comfort, while about him the winter winds of sorrow beat, and the snows of sorrow fall—dead, that you might live. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

NILAND REALTY SALES AGGREGATE $250,000 IN 2 DAYS

NILAND, March 16.—Niland, in the second day of its existence, continued yesterday to justify the predictions of Imperial Valley residents when more than $100,000 worth of business and residence lots and near-by acreage was sold to men of Los Angeles, San Diego and Imperial Valley cities. One hundred lots at an aggregate price of $60,000, were sold before 10 o'clock this morning. The total transactions during the first two days since the town was dedicated exceeded $250,000.

Announcements were made last night by fifteen of yesterday's buyers that they intend to erect buildings at once, these in addition to the extensive building operations announced Saturday.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-Time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody
Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes aging. Advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.
